Adolf Hitler recognized early on how propaganda, combined with the use of terror, could help his extremist party gain mass support and votes. Under his leadership, the Nazi Party developed a sophisticated propaganda machine that deftly spread lies about its political opponents, Jews and the need for war.

“Adolf Hitler was an avid student of propaganda, who borrowed techniques from the Allies in World War I, his Socialist and Communist rivals, the Italian Fascist Party as well as modern advertising,” says State of Deception curator Steven Luckert. “Drawing upon these models, he successfully marketed the Nazi Party, its ideology and himself to the German people.”

Featuring rarely seen artifacts, State of Deception: The Power of Nazi Propaganda draws visitors into a rich multimedia environment, vividly illustrating the insidious allure of much of Nazi propaganda. This most extreme case study emphasizes why the issue of propaganda matters and challenges citizens to actively question, analyze and seek the truth.

"PROPAGANDA IS A TRULY TERRIBLE WEAPON IN THE HANDS OF AN EXPERT."
— Adolf Hitler, Mein Kampf, 1924

In order for the Nazis to achieve power and pursue their racial policies and expansionist war efforts, however, a much more nuanced picture had to be painted—one that would appeal to broad swaths of the population, not just a fanatical extreme.

MCHE | 913-327-8190 | info@mchekc.org | mchekc.org
I have said many times that serving as coordinator for “Witnesses to the Holocaust,” MCHE’s inaugural project that recorded interviews with local Holocaust survivors, was not only my most personally rewarding experience as executive director but also the most significant in furthering our educational goals.

Conducted in cooperation with the Fortunoff Archive for Video Testimonies at Yale University and funded by grants from the William T. Kemper Foundation, David Woods Kemper Memorial Foundation and Oppenstein Brothers Foundation, the project also resulted in two documentaries produced by Outpost Worldwide.

Later, MCHE’s Portrait 2000 exhibit, funded by the Jewish Community Foundation, featured written profiles based on audio recordings of local survivors photographed by Gloria Baker Feinstein and David Sosland. The exhibit led to the publication of From the Heart by Kansas City Star Books in 2001.

Enhanced Resources

Aided by technological advances few could have imagined, MCHE is now making its treasure trove of survivor testimonies available online. This project represents the culmination of 20 years of dedicated efforts to collect, edit and reformat interviews by Kansas City-area survivors. Each profile features the survivor’s video or audio testimony, as well as additional resources specific to that individual’s experience.

As the original VHS interview format became outdated, generous financial support from the Claims Conference, Jewish Federation and the Jewish Community Foundation, along with special consideration from Outpost Worldwide, provided MCHE with the means to digitize our collection of videotaped interviews and condense the original interviews for classroom use, web postings, and for free loan through our resource center. The full-length narratives, which run from 45 minutes to three hours, may be viewed onsite at MCHE. In addition, MCHE produced six thematic DVDs, which are available for sale.

Preserving the Legacy

The current project, supervised by Jessica Rockhold, MCHE’s director of education, allows us to revisit each individual testimony and make corrections to audio transcripts recorded in conjunction with Portrait 2000. This process has been greatly enhanced by Elizabeth Perry, a master’s degree student in history at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, who is interning with us for the spring semester.

MCHE’s next goal is to secure funding to transfer the audio interviews from their original cassette format to digital and MP3 files and to add closed captioning to the six thematic DVD programs.

Being part of this process has been a true honor and privilege, and we are extremely grateful to all those who shared their stories with us and to those who volunteered as interviewers and transcribers. Through their participation, MCHE has realized its vision of preserving the legacy of our community’s survivors and teaching about this history by illustrating its impact on one person, one family.

In my message in the fall newsletter, I suggested that all members of MCHE make a personal commitment to "involvement" if MCHE is to meet the challenging goals before us. Your positive response has not only strengthened MCHE's ability to advance its primary mission to teach the history and lessons of the Holocaust to prevent its recurrence forever and to preserve and honor the memory of all those who suffered, but it now further inspires us to focus on translating history and memory into responsive and preventive action for today and the future.

The time is NOW for us to address local and global challenges realistically and proactively as they arise in order to ensure that the lessons of the Holocaust remain alive and relevant for our children and grandchildren. In collaboration with like-minded groups and individuals, MCHE must prepare to take on new initiatives to counter rising antisemitism and hate, extremists who threaten our democratic values, ongoing genocides world-wide, bullying in our local schools and neighborhoods, increasing Holocaust denial and distortion, and uncaring indifference to the suffering of others.

I’m so pleased to note that the board, council, staff and members of MCHE recognize the need to confront these challenges in new and creative ways. Recently, the board adopted “Guidelines for Advocacy” to encourage individual members and MCHE as an organization to speak out more proactively to persuade policymakers and all people to heed the lessons of the Holocaust by thinking and acting with tolerance, compassion and political courage.

This year, in recognition of the need to impact and engage younger generations and more diverse audiences for whom the current relevance of the Holocaust becomes more distant with each passing year, MCHE has embarked upon more creative and sophisticated technological approaches utilizing state-of-the-art internet-based tools and social media.

From June 24 to October 25, MCHE will be guiding us from memories and lessons of the Holocaust to preventive action for the future by bringing the outstanding United States Holocaust Memorial Museum exhibition, State of Deception: The Power of Nazi Propaganda, to Kansas City. This ground-breaking exhibition informs us of the Nazis’ skilled use of propaganda and lies in the 1920s and 30s to persuade ordinary citizens to engage in and tolerate mass violence and genocide. It forewarns us of the skilled propagandists operating today in our own country and globally who are disseminating intolerance and hatred through new and evolving means of electronic communications to a public unable to cope with such overloads of misinformation.

Through this exhibition, MCHE members and volunteers will be proactively helping people in our community to recognize and respond effectively to biased messages and propaganda campaigns, and we will be teaching young people that they cannot always believe everything they hear or read. The work and support of MCHE members in efforts such as this are what moving from involvement to action is all about and why MCHE’s mission remains so relevant and important.
MCHE annual memberships are scheduled for renewal in either June or December, depending upon the donation date. June renewals are indicated by italics. Please use the attached envelope to become an MCHE member, to reactivate a lapsed membership, or to renew your current membership. Those received by June 30, 2014, will be recognized in both our fall donor listing and by level in next spring’s newsletter and will be current through June 30, 2015.

July 9
The Jewish Enemy: Nazi Propaganda during World War II and the Holocaust
Dr. Jeffrey Herf, University of Maryland, explores the language and metaphors that conveyed the ideological and emotional aspects of Nazi ideology, especially radical antisemitism, addressing the question of why centuries-old antisemitism assumed genocidal proportions between 1941 and 1945.

July 23
Building the Racial State: Nazi Propaganda and the National Community in Germany
Dr. William Meinecke, historian, United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, examines how Nazi propaganda shaped German society and prepared the population to accept, support or participate in persecution, war and the mass murder of Europe’s Jews and others.

August 6
Hate Mail: Antisemitism on Picture Postcards
Salo Aizenberg, a leading collector of Judaica picture postcards, presents postcard images from the pre-Holocaust era that illustrate deep-seated attitudes of society and the many virulent permutations of antisemitism eagerly exchanged by millions of ordinary people.

August 20
Media, Reeducation and the German Public after the Holocaust
Dr. Robert Williams, Center for Advanced Studies, United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, will assess the ways that Soviet and American propaganda curtailed discussion and remembrance of the Holocaust during the early Cold War in Germany.

September 3
Everywhere You Looked: Propaganda in the World War I Era
Dr. Pearl James, University of Kentucky, situates World War I propaganda posters within the larger visual culture of the time, illustrating how a single image moved from newspapers to posters and into animated film, changing the style of advertising and extending its reach in ways that anticipate our current, super-saturated media environment.

September 17
Power of Film Images and the Holocaust
Sharon Pucker Rivo, co-founder and executive director, National Center For Jewish Film, Brandeis University, presents an analysis of film—newsreels, documentary and narrative films—employed by the Third Reich in their campaign of genocide against the Jewish people.

October 1
State Control and State Engagement with News Media: From the Nazis to Edward Snowden
Art Brisbane, former publisher of The Kansas City Star and visiting professor in journalism ethics at Washington and Lee University, explores the spectrum of state influence over new media, from outright propaganda to subtle negotiation between government and news outlets.

October 22
Trial of the Propagandists: Accessories to Genocide
Professor Harry Reicher, University of Pennsylvania Law School, examines the postwar trial of the major war criminals at Nuremberg, which included the first confrontation in an international court of the role of propaganda in inciting hatred, paving the way for major atrocities coming within the crime of Crimes Against Humanity.

Docent-Led School Tours and Bus Subsidies
Free docent-led tours may be scheduled now for students in grades 7 and up. Groups of up to 60 students are recommended, but larger groups can be arranged. Contact Mickey Ebert at the National Archives at Kansas City at 816-268-8013 or mickey.ebert@nara.gov. Bus subsidies of up to $250 per school are available through MCHE for field trips. Applications are available at www.mchekc.org/bussubsidy. Those received by May 15, 2014, will receive priority consideration. Contact Jessica Rockhold at 913-327-8195 or jessicar@mchekc.org.

Programs for Educators
Propaganda Workshop (June 24-26), 9:00 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. at the National Archives at Kansas City. Participants will gain an extensive understanding of the exhibition while exploring the significance of World War I atrocity propaganda upon future propaganda, Nazification of the German population through propaganda, Allied efforts at postwar de-Nazification, as well as American anti-Japanese propaganda. Presented by MCHE in cooperation with the National World War I Museum, National Archives at Kansas City and the Truman Presidential Library and Museum. Advance registration is required by June 17, 2014. For more information, visit www.mchekc.org/propagandaworkshop. A $25 fee applies.

Educator Preview (July 23) This free program, 9:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. at the National Archives, includes remarks by Dr. William Meinecke, historian from the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, a tour of the exhibition and a demonstration of on-site activities planned for school groups. Registration is required by July 16, 2014, at www.mchekc.org/educatorpreview.

To apply as a volunteer docent, contact Mickey Ebert at 816.268.8013 or mickey.ebert@nara.gov.
May 13 – The Counterfeiters
This film tells the true story of the largest counterfeiting operation in history, established by the Nazis in 1936. Salomon Sorowitsch, king of counterfeiters, lives a decadent life in Berlin until he is arrested and sent to Mauthausen concentration camp. His exceptional skills land him in the upgraded camp of Sachsenhausen, where he and a group of professionals are forced to produce fake foreign currency under the program Operation Bernhard. Faced with a moral dilemma, Salomon must decide whether his actions, which could prolong the war and risk the lives of fellow prisoners, are ultimately the right ones. (subtitled)

Introduction and discussion by Dr. Brad Prager, Associate Professor of German and member of the Program in Film Studies, University of Missouri

After the Holocaust, a survivor from Antwerp, Belgium, endlessly turns over the soil of Antwerp in an attempt to find suitcases he buried while escaping from Nazis. His daughter Chaya, a rebellious university student, is hired as a nanny by a strictly observant Chassidic family even though her secular manners clearly fly in the face of their traditions. Chaya develops a special bond with the youngest of the boys, four-year-old Simcha, so far incapable of speaking. When tragedy strikes, some in the community hold Chaya responsible. (in English)

Introduction and discussion by Dr. Ben Furnish, Managing Editor, BkMk Press, University of Missouri-Kansas City

American Cartoonists: Nazi Germany and the Holocaust

Exhibition Extended through May 8 at the Jewish Community Campus

Following its two-month display at the Central Library in Kansas City, American Cartoonists: Nazi Germany and the Holocaust has moved to the Jewish Community Campus through May 8, 2014. Presented by MCHE in cooperation with the Jewish Community Center, this panel exhibit illustrates the impact Jewish cartoonists had on the comic book industry in the 1930s and 1940s while telling the story of the ways this unlikely medium played a role in exposing hatred and the horrors of the Holocaust.

On loan from New York’s Kuperberg Holocaust Resource Center and Archives at Queensborough Community College, the local project is funded by the J-LEAD Fund of the Jewish Community Foundation of Greater Kansas City.

Katzberg Bench

The family of Holocaust survivors Helen and Leon Katzberg gathered in November to dedicate a memorial bench at the site of the Warsaw Ghetto Memorial at the Jewish Community Campus.

Leon was the last surviving member of the committee from the New American Club, which planned and assumed financial responsibility for the 10-foot by 10-foot aluminum sculpture that originally stood at the entrance of the former Jewish Community Center on Holmes Road.

This memorial to the six million Jews murdered during the Holocaust also stands as a personal monument to the losses sustained by local survivors and is inscribed with the names of 400 family members. Harry S. Truman dedicated the monument, one of the first of its kind, on June 9, 1963.
