We chose the topic of targets of eugenics because we know people with disabilities are still subject to bullying and being discriminated against. We hope that with our documentary we can spread awareness about how people with disabilities have been targeted in the past. This relates to the prompt because targets of eugenics were a non-jewish victim group persecuted by the Nazi party in the Holocaust.

Our thesis is how and why were targets of eugenics persecuted during the holocaust? We think this question encompasses all of the ideas we would like to discuss in our documentary. In creating our documentary first we decided what group we would like to focus on. Then we came up with an initial plan and outline figuring out how we would like to structure the documentary. Then we did research on our topics and started to form a draft with information we would like to include. We gathered pictures as well and put a video together with the pictures.

Lastly, we voiced over the video with the information we gathered earlier. Some special problems we had to solve were finding enough pictures. We wanted our documentary to be engaging and more pictures would help with that. As well as finding pictures that are truly captivating and help tell the story. Everytime we found a new link or a good resource page it was like a lucky break.

We wanted to put as much information as possible in the documentary so we can be informed as well as the people watching. So those new discoveries were our little good surprises in the documentary process. Overall neither of us had done anything like this before so it was a huge learning process that we both really enjoyed. We are happy to have created this and to now have the experience to do something similar again.
